

THE INTERCOLLEGIATE FEMINIST CENTER FOR TEACHING,
RESEARCH AND ENGAGEMENT PRESENTS:

A PANEL DISCUSSION ON GENDER, POLICING AND PUBLIC HEALTH

DANIELLE M. DUPUY

JADE RIVERA

Danielle Dupuy is Director of Research and Programs at the Ralph J. Bunche Center for African American Studies at UCLA and Co-Director of Million Dollar Hoods. Her own work focuses on the impact of incarceration on youth violence, and she has been mentoring and developing educational programs for youth charged as adults in LA County. She is a Ph.D. candidate in the Community Health Sciences Program at the UCLA School of Public Health. She will discuss the Million Dollar Hoods report on Women in the Los Angeles County Jail and the public health implications of the top charges against women arrested and jailed in LA County.

Jade Rivera is Associate Director of Student Services for San Francisco State University's Metro College Success Program, which supports students in achieving academic excellence while preparing them to critically analyze and confront social factors that lead to health disparities impacting historically marginalized populations. She was one of three students in the SFSU Master's of Public Health Program to work to develop and pass the American Public Health Association's 2018 policy statement regarding police violence as a public health issue.

MONDAY, APRIL 1, 2019

4:15 PM

HAMPTON ROOM, SCRIPPS COLLEGE

This event is the second of the two-part series on Gender, Policing and Public Health and co-sponsored by the J.C. Harper Lecture Funds, Scripps College.

Events are free and open to the public.

FMI: 909-621-8274 | ifc@scrippscollege.edu

